JAPAN HURRYING BIG SQUADRON TO GUARD SHANGHAI

On Day Battleships Start Yuan Shih-Kai Announces Postponement of Coronation

THREE BOMBS FOUND IN HIS PALACE IN PEKING

Fifty Officers Arrested as Result of Attempted Assassination; Conference in Tokio

(Special Cable to Nippon Jiji)
TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 21.—Japan has despatched the third naval squadron to Shanghai to protect Japanese interests should there be trouble between the monarchists and revolutionists at that point.

The third squadron consists of battleships, and is under the command of Lieut. Admiral K. Murakami. The squadron left Sasebo today for the Chinese port. Among the battleships in the squadron are the Kashima, the flagship, and the Hizen.

The situation in Shanghai is growing alarming, and it is expected that the revolutionists will make a move in that section within the next fortnight.

Coronation Postponed.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)
PEKING, China, Jan. 21.—The coronation of the new Chinese emperor, President Yuan Shih-Kai, has been indefinitely postponed. The official reason given for this action is that the uprisings in southern China have forced the abandonment of the original plans.

Conference in Tokio.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)
TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 21.—A conference of the emperor and the Elder Statesmen and the cabinet, held today in the imperial palace, has created the impression that the Entente Powers, under the leadership of Japan, are discussing steps to bring about a postponement of the establishment of the monarchy in China until the end of the war. Japan has already signified her wish that such action be taken.

(Special Cable to Nippon Jiji).

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 21.—A plot to assassinate Yuan Shih-Kai was discovered by the police in Peking, and the ringleaders have been apprehended. Three bombs were placed in the palace, timed for a meeting of the council. It is stated that a prominent official is one of the leaders in the plot.

Arrest Fifty Officers.

(Special Cable to Liberty News.)
SHANGHAI, Jan. 21.—Three bombs were discovered under the palace at Peking today by secret service men of Yuan Shih-Kai. The bombs were set for the hour when Yuan Shih-Kai had called a meeting of his advisors, and the plot to assassinate the emperor was not discovered until a few minutes before the meeting was called.

Fifty military officers of the palace were immediately arrested upon discovery of the plot, and a strict investigation has been started at the palace. It is rumored that Dun Ke Sui, former minister of war, was the ringleader in the attempted assassination of Yuan. Dun Ke Sui has been a prisoner in the palace since his resignation, and the secret police believe that he is the man who is responsible for the placing of the infernal machines.

(Special Cable to Liberty News.)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 21.—The revolutionary troops of Yunnan province under the command of General Luo Pei Kim met a division of Yuan Shih-Kai's troops today at the border of Kweichow and Hunan provinces. The revolutionary troops numbered 3000, while the army of Yuan was estimated at 5000. After a severe engagement of six hours during which 1000 of Yuan's troops were killed and wounded, the monarchist army retreated to Pan King. The loss to the revolutionists was not heavy.

Another province has started a campaign against the Yuan government. A despatch today from Shansi states that revolutionary troops in that province took two districts from the monarchists in a severe engagement near Luau Fu. Yuan's troops retreated and are now inside the garrison at Ton Kwan.

Shansi province is in the north of China, adjoining the province of Chihli, the stronghold of the monarchists, and is not more than 100 miles from Peking, the seat of the monarchical government. This province is isolated from the other revolutionary sections, and military leaders believe that this is the beginning of the fight against Yuan at his own door. The southern boundary of this province is the Huang Ho river, one of the principal rivers of China.

The military governor at Nanking has sent word to Chen Ke Mei, the leader of the revolutionists at Shanghai, and one of the former military governors of that city asking that a representative of the revolution be sent to Nanking to consider the advisability of declaring independence of Yuan in Kiang Su province. Nanking is in the same province as Shanghai, and is one of the strongest cities in eastern China.

TELEPHONE LINES BEING PUT IN REPAIR SLOWLY; MAIL BY HORSEBACK SENT TO WAILUKU

Further Estimates of Loss of Life and Property Expected By Steamer Tomorrow

No further wireless news from Maui could be secured this afternoon owing to the break in communications between Lahaina and Wailuku. From Hilo the Star-Bulletin correspondent wireless that the weather on the Big Island is beautiful, the sea calm and no damage to speak of done by the heavy rains and winds.

Through Basil E. Fenn, wireless operator at Lahaina, the Star-Bulletin today was able to get the latest report of the known dead on the storm-swept Valley Isle.

The following message was received from Operator Fenn at 1:45 this afternoon:

"LAHAINA, Maui, Jan. 21.—Dead, fourteen; injured, eight; exact number missing unknown. Little mail filtering through by packhorses. Telephone communication cannot be restored before Sunday at the earliest.

"Latest damage estimate not yet learned. Wiring upon receipt expected reports."

This report was received by the Star-Bulletin as the result of efforts made today fruitlessly to reach its Maui correspondent, and the courtesy and cooperation of Operator Fenn and the Mutual Telephone Company's wireless department. The Star-Bulletin wireless to Operator Fenn this morning to secure what details could be learned at Lahaina.

As all communication between Lahaina and Wailuku, except by the slow method of horseback messenger, is interrupted, only the meagerest details are reaching Lahaina and the wireless office there of the storm's ravages on the Valley Isle, which were greatest at Wailuku. It was there the loss of life occurred.

(The following message from their Lahaina operator was received this morning at the Honolulu office of the Mutual Telephone Company, Ltd.)

LAHAINA, January 21.—Telephone lines are now working all right to the foot of the Pali. The mountain road is piled with great masses of rocks and stones, and in some places it is not more than three feet wide.

Small portions of mail are now beginning to filter through on horseback. Wireless messages from other islands to Maui points can be accepted, subject to delay by mail which leaves Lahaina at 9 o'clock each morning.

Serious trouble with the Kaanapali wharf, the only sugar shipping point for the Pioneer Mill, has developed because of the recent kona gale, according to a radiogram received this morning by H. Hackfeld & Company, Ltd.

This stated that no sugar can be loaded at Kaanapali next week. Although no details were given, F. W. Klebahn, secretary of Hackfeld's, said this morning that the wharf has apparently been put out of commission by the storm.

Kaanapali wharf has an endless belt conveyor system which is able to load 2200 bags of sugar an hour on lighters which carry the sacks out to American-Hawaiian, Matson and Inter-Island steamers. The wharf damage will delay greatly all shipments of sugar from Kaanapali, one of the important sugar-shipping ports of the territory.

Filled with concern for Spanish families who may be suffering from the devastations of the flood on Maui, Senor Luis Guillen Gil, consul for Spain, will leave this afternoon on the steamer Claudine for the valley island.

"I am going chiefly to find out what damage has been done to my people so that I can know just what is best to do to help them," said the consul today. "I received word yesterday of the storm from one of the businessmen of Wailuku, telling me that three Spanish families were included in the list of those dead.

"I am told that the people of Maui are doing their part very generously to help even the poorest families in this hour of trouble, but still I feel that it is proper that I should go and do what I can to aid them."

Senor Gil called on Secretary of the Territory Wade Warren Thayer this morning in regard to the trip. He will return early next week if possible.

No more word had been received today up to 2:30 by Alexander & Baldwin in regard to damages to their Maui plantations, so that no estimate of damage could be given out further than was announced yesterday.

Territorial officials have received no news today in regard to wharf damage, though it is expected that details will be received in the next mails.

At 2:30 today C. Brewer & Company, Ltd., reported that no further reports of storm damage sustained by Wailuku Plantation, or other plantations on Maui had been received down to that hour.

In one of the games a number of white men and Hawaiians were engaged. Those participating in this game were H. Brown, C. A. Sutton, Frank Ross, H. Chalmers, all believed to be fictitious names, and Tagawa, Doune, Murakami, Watanaka, Tanaga, Kukino and C. Makahoe.

NO NEW CLUES FOUND TO GEORGE MURDER

Not a single additional clue has been developed which may lead to the arrest of the man who killed G. M. George, a civilian employee at Schofield Barracks Tuesday night, either at the post or by the federal authorities. It was ascertained this afternoon. While the authorities still believe they have trace of the murderer, the circumstantial evidence is so slight that no conviction could be secured on it now.

Norwegian shipping losses in the war are estimated at $10,000,000 in a despatch from Christiania.
